RUSSIA'S SUGAR CROP.

Announcement Made by the Minister

The State Department made public today a ranslation of a circular issued by the Russian minister of finance and transmitted by Consul General Holloway at St. Petersburg, that country's sugar surplus. The circular recites that according to the report of the committee of ministers, dated July 3, the quantity of sugar to be placed on the home market for the period 1902-1903 is 1,552,816,-000 pounds, and the intangible reserve is fixed at 180,560,000 pounds. "The basis of particulars given by the managers of excise revenues," the circular states, "for the term ended August 15, and taking into consideration the area of plantations, the harvest and quality of the sugar-beet roots during the last three periods, and the existing surplus of sugar in different factories, the total output of sugar for this period is estimated at 2,708,400,000 pounds, out of which 1.155,-584 pounds would constitute the surplus."

"On the above basis," the circular continues, "the minister orders that 54.9 per cent of the output for 1902-1903 be passed over to the surplus, out of which 11 per cent must be passed into the intangible reserve and 43.9 per cent to the free surplus of each factory. In those factories where there is already an intangible reserve which at the end of the accounts must be added to the figure of the total output and redistributed between the free sugar and the surplus in proportion to the new sugar passed to the intangible surplus—an equal quantum of sugar of the preceding reserve s to be passed into the free reserve

tend It. As a practical illustration of the fact that Germany's diplomatic officers, as well as her consuls and commercial attaches. are taking a deep and intelligent interest in the extension of that country's export trade, Consular Clerk Murphy, at Frankfort, has transmitted to the State Department under date of September 16, a translation from the report of the chamber of commerce at Muchen-Gladbach, Prussia, for 1901, which tells of official action taken in support of the export trade.

The case in point was the cotton ware market in Morocco, and the report of the chamber of commerce redites that the Moorish demand for such products had previously been supplied almost exclusively by Efigiand. The sale of cotton wares in Morocco is not insignificant—the importations at eight Moorish ports in 1809 amounting to about $2,766,000. The German legation at Tangler caused the principal German firms there to prepare a collection of man firms there to prepare a collection of samples for the information of interested German manufacturers. The samples, accompanied by an explanatory report, were forwarded to the Muchen-Gladbach champer, with instructions to pass it on to the

Mr. Murphy says that the plan of the German minister at Tangier to compete with the English rivals was simple and ef-fective, owing to the fact that Germany's representatives abroad, its ministry of commerce and its individual boards of trade work hand in hand for the accomplishment of an object, which is always kept distinctly in view.

Official Reports Must Be Cut. The President has instructed the Secretary of the Navy to devise some plan by which the present tendency to increase the number and size of printed reports and doc-uments of all sorts may be curbed. He ex-presses the opinion that there is too much useless matter and a large number of un-necessary and expensive illustrations in-cluded in many of the reports of bureau officers.

WAS AFFECTED WITH RABIES. Result of Investigation Regarding Dog Killed in Laurel.

Special Correspondence of The Evening Star.

LAUREL, Md., October 14, 1902. Dr. T. Watts Byerly, health officer of Laurel, has received information from the authorities of the Baltimore hospital, to which was sent the body of the collie dog killed on the streets of this town on the morning of September 23, that animals inoculated with the serum obtained from the dead canine are exhibiting the most violent form of rables. The dog which was killed here on the morning stated had been bitten, it is stated, more than a year previously by a dog supposed to have been suffering with the rabies, and that a close watch had been kept upon it ever since that time. It was the property of Mr. Samuel Bell of Beltsville, living about six miles from Laurel.

During the night of September 22, it is said, it broke from its fastenings, and early the next morning had arrived here, biting on its way a number of stray canines. In this place it bit a number of dogs, several horses, a man named Shaw and a little girl, the daughter of Mrs. D. Whitehead. The little girl was taken to Delivite and the control of the stray of the control of the stray of the control of the stray of the control of the little girl was taken to Baltimore for treatment, and Mr. Shaw, whose residence is, it is said, in Rockville, has returned to his is said, in Rockville, has returned to his home. At the regular bi-monthly meeting of the town council held last night in the town hall, with Mayor Timanus and all of the councilmen present, an ordinance was passed regulating the formation of the local volunteer fire department. Measures were also taken looking to the protection of the department, and the apparatus of the different companies, both in time of fire and when not in use. The chief and captains of the companies will during a conflagration be vested with the powers of the town bailliffs, and the clerk was ordered to purchase badges to be worn by the officers named while fighting fire.

The sloop Levin Woolford, which has been employed in the wood, lumber and oyster-carrying business on the Potomac, has been rerigged and changed into a handsome little schooner. The change in the rig and the increased sail area given the vessel has made her a much better sailing craft.

General News of the Port.

The large schooner yacht Ciconia, belonging to Mr. C. C. So far as has been ascertained the flames have done the hull of the boat little harm, as the fire was confined to her cabin.

laden with Potomac oysters, have arrived at the 11th street wharf. A NEW BOULEVARD.

Atlantic City Will Have It for Easter

Special Correspondence of The Evening Star. ATLANTIC CITY, October 12, 1902. The county board of freeholders has orered a construction of a new road across mainland, and work will begin at once. It will be a free road, and will give Atlantic City a boulevard direct from the beach to New York and Philadelphia. The engineers in charge hope to have it completed before the opening of the Easter season, preparations for which are already under way. SPOONER ON THE TRUSTS. Senator From Wisconsin Makes Campaign Speech in Milwaukee.

United States Senator John C. Spooner made his first speech of the republican campaign in Wisconsin, at Schlitz Park, Milwaukee, last night, speaking under the auspices of the republican national congressional committee. A crowd of 3,000 people turned out in a drenching rain to hear him. Touching upon the coal strike the speaker

"The coal strike is an element which dis turbs the people of this whole country. It is a menace which frightens almost every one. Does any man attribute it to the republican policies? Who does? It is a question between the operators, the coal mining companies and their men, in which I sympathize with the men. (Prolonged ap-

Mr. Charles B. Green has returned to his plause.)
"The coal combination is one which exists in violation of the constitution of the state of Pennsylvania, which prohibits a railroad company from owning or operating coal mines. If that constitutional provision has not been enforced, it is not the fault of the republican party in the United States. It is the fault of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania. No man can attribute the found-ing and continuance of the so-called coal trust to national legislation. It cannot be attributed to the tariff, for until a dutyand a small duty—on anthracite coal found its way, somehow—I have yet to find the man who knows how—into the Dingley law. man who knows how—into the Dingle, there had been no tariff on anthracite coal.
"What help is there for it in this coun"We cannot the speaker. "We cannot try?" continued the speaker. "We cannot stop them at once. If you had the power to stop them tomorrow, in five days from that day there would not be a bank open in any city in the United States, and there would not be a factory open or a large eswould not be a factory open or a large establisment engaged in any industry."

"I only mean to indicate that whatever remedy is to be sought for them must be carefully sought and intelligently applied. I have been of the opinion that the laws of competition, if left to have their way, would, in the end, conquer them and protect the people. Take the sugar trust, a corporation which controlled 98 per cent of the sugar refined in the United States. One would suppose that a monopoly, but for the last few years, as you know, there has been between the sugar trust, as it is called, and between the sugar trust, as it is called, and the independent refineries as fierce and bit-this country. "I do not propose to make any argument for a protective tariff. If ever a policy has vindicated itself, it has. Our industries have been stimulated; they have developed, they have challenged the admiration, almost the fear, of the world. I am in favor now, as I always have been, and always expect to be, of imposing a tariff duty upon competitive products coming from the other side to this country which will cover the difference in the labor cost over there and the labor cost over here. Duties of a year ago may be too low or too high. So fast as it can be done without disturbing the industries of the country or paralyzing by its uncertainty our commerce or our manufactures, the tariff may safely and wisely be revised. But when it is re-
